

Our History

Surplus Electrical Innovations, Inc., SEI, is a small woman owned business, established in 1991, offering a combined 85 years of experience in providing reliable products and exceptional service to our customers. S.E.I. takes pride in being a leading supplier of quality former government surplus material in support of our nation’s military. Our 15,000 sq. ft. warehouse contains a vast supply of shipboard / aerospace electrical components, and offers an extensive array of product solutions.

Our Advantage

SEI specializes in the supply of obsolete, hard-to-find electrical components at competitive prices with little to no lead time. All of our inventory is maintained on-site, in stock, and ready to ship. Our customers eliminate the added lead time that third party procurement companies include by dealing directly with SEI, the product supplier. Critical, time sensitive orders are our specialty and we always meet or exceed customer deadlines.

Our Quality

We are dedicated to providing authentic, quality, unused former government surplus material to our customers. Established company policies and procedures for quality control have been the standard of practice at S.E.I. since inception. Controls are in place throughout all S.E.I. processes so that product quality is ensured at all phases of company operation. Our documented, trained, and practiced Counterfeit Avoidance Policy ensures that our customers receive only genuine authentic products.

Our Products

Surplus Electrical Innovations deals almost exclusively in the purchase, warehousing, and sale of former government surplus. With over 20 years of acquiring liquidated surplus property, SEI offers an extensive selection of inventory that includes millions of parts from a wide-array of product classifications. We also provide custom shipboard motor control, circuit breaker and replacement part assemblies based on customer specific requirements. Please see our company line card for a detailed listing of products available.

Our Proven Reliability

SEI has demonstrated our customer commitment throughout the years by continuously providing quality, reliable products and on-time delivery. We have been a recipient of the Defense Logistics Agency Recognition for Excellence - Gold Award 11 times, recognizing our continued customer satisfaction over the course of many years. Surplus Electrical Innovations was also chosen twice to receive the distinguished Defense Logistics Agency Outstanding Readiness Support Award acknowledging our dedication to supplying our nation’s military.

Our Customers
